• About the Speakers

Carly Sotas is a social entrepreneur and the author of Illusion, a non-fiction book that investigates social constructs of happiness, confidence and success. Originally from Birtle, Manitoba, Carly has studied and worked with NGOs around the world, from New York and London, to Bangkok and Luang Prabang. Carly holds an Honors Bachelor of Environmental Design from the University of British Columbia, where she studied as a Loran Scholar and served as a facilitator for the university's peer mental-health support group. Carly believes that everyone has an important story to share. She is committed to empowering young leaders to recognize their ability to create positive change, regardless of their age, background, or status.

Bob Kline believes in kids. “Kids these days” is a common refrain that some folks use to complain about today’s generation, but in reality, today’s young people are far more accepting of diversity and treat each other better than they ever have before. Bob will share his experiences that have shaped this belief. From large scale demonstrations of support like Pink Shirt Day to simple moments of kindness that unfold every day, today’s young people are defying the perception that bullying defines today’s schools.
